International Drone Day celebration in Akron/Canton, Ohio on Saturday 6th May Learn why drones are good

Canal Fulton Ohio: On Saturday May 6th Canal Fulton will host an event to highlight ways in which drones are used for good. This event is open to the media and public, and will provide insight into the often controversial world of drones. The event offers opportunities for interview and to photograph drones.

Event organizer Cliff Franks comments “International Drone Day in Canal Fulton allows anyone who is curious about drones to ask questions and see them fly. You may have heard bad things on the news and want to know more, or you may have heard good things and want to see how easy they are to fly. Come along and we will share our knowledge with you”.

International Drone Day was founded by David and Sarah Oneal of That Drone Show to educate people about the ways drones are used for good, such as in search and rescue, conservation, agriculture, sport, and film. May 6th is the third annual International Drone Day event, and 90,000 people are expected to attend events throughout Asia, Australia, Europe, North America, and South America.
